Comments:

Apichaya: I'm the type of person who loves drawing and the one who loves birds. My work habits are sometimes I don't really focus on my work but sometimes I do pay attention every time, when something serious happens. I get along with some other children pretty well, like the Kappas. They love playing with me, especially Matelda. I'm good at being creative when it comes to making stories and art but most of the time is drawing and coloring. I think I need to work on Math, Thai, spelling and maybe English. I solve problems by asking the teacher for help. Well, I act normal around strangers and other adults but most of the time I talk to my friends more than everyone else. I like to learn about strange things in space and on the earth and I like to learn about birds. When it comes to school work, I think that I'm too lazy to do it. The most interesting thing that I learn is the layer of forest and the deep sea.

Mr. Austin: Apichaya is a quiet and responsible student who completes her tasks with diligence and meets deadlines consistently. Apichaya is also responsible enough and does her chores thoroughly. She is able to look after her younger peers and is able to play a leading role in the group work. She demonstrates a broad knowledge base that is notable for her age. Her creativity stands out during writing activities in Family Crew time and English class. However, her math skills require further development. Apichaya's artistic talent is evident in her artwork and poster-making projects. In class, her concentration is generally adequate, but she occasionally struggles to maintain focus on tasks. This can lead to extended time needed to complete assignments, which affects her pace. During physical activities, she participates and shows the ability to work both independently and as a leader in group settings. While her writing ideas are thoughtful and well-developed, there is room for improvement in her handwriting. By enhancing her time management and refining her handwriting, Apichaya can further develop her academic performance.
